COGO Optronics Inc., Boulder, Colorado, moves close to HHI

The two year long close partnership between the Photonic Components department at HHI and the American company COGO Optronics for development of high bitrate lasers is now taking on a totally new dimension. In early fall COGO is locating its German subsidiary COGO GmbH within easy walking distance of the Heinrich Hertz Institute!

"The alliance between HHI and COGO is a genuine milestone on the way to world leadership in the field of optical components," says Hans-Joachim Grallert commenting on the move. "HHI is already the world leader in development of components in the field of 40 to 60 Gbit/s data transmission. With COGO and the commitment of investors, we can now secure Berlin as the hub for implementing our work in the high end product sector of the telecommunications market where worldwide demand is consistently high."
